1. Welcome Note

Welcome to the Maritime Law module at the M.Sc. University of Piraeus Shipping Management course. During the following nine weeks, you will comprehend the major issues of maritime law, delivered in a way specifically designed to address your professional needs.

2. Module aim

The module is designed to develop the students' knowledge in relation to the legal framework which relates to the business of owning and managing vessels. Focus will be placed upon the law of Admiralty, the aim being for the students to acquire practical and usable knowledge in issues which they are likely to meet in their professional environment.

3. Learning Outcomes—what you will gain from taking the module:

By the end of this module, students will be able to:

1. Critically interpret main admiralty issues so as to protect the interests of the owner/manager;
2. Evaluate the issues arising in maritime law disputes and solve them using the applicable legal framework;
3. Apply the taught principles of law to factual situations and evaluate the relevant legal standing;

4. Indicative Module Content:

- Salvage;
- Towage;
- Collisions;
- Carriage of passengers;
- International Trade and Shipping Documents;
- Bills of Lading.

5. How the module is taught, attendance and the teaching schedule:

The module will utilize flexible, responsive and interactive learning environments by the use of a combination among lectures, seminars, workshops, independent self – tasks and the use of Virtual Learning Environment (e – college) to encourage students' ability to think critically and creatively. Critical thinking will be achieved through standard contracts analysis and evaluation, case studies and real shipping scenarios. The teaching process is intended to be highly interactive so as to aim not only at providing knowledge but, more importantly, in developing students' legal skills.
