CV NOTE

Thanos Pallis is Professor & holder of the Jean Monnet Chair (European Port Policy) at the Department of Maritime Studies, University of Piraeus, Greece, where he directs the Integrated Port Economics & Management Laboratory. He is founder & co-director of PortEconomics, the Vice Chair of the Port Performance Research Network (PPRN) and Senior Scientific Advisor to the Florence School of Regulation, European University Institute.

Academia4-

In 2025, Thanos was among the 2% of the world's most-cited researchers in the realm of transport & logistics (citations > 7.900 / h-index = 45 / i10 = 113). He won the "Maritime Economics & Logistics Best Paper Award" of the International Maritime Association of Maritime Economists twice: in 2008, for leading research on container port concession agreements, and in 2017, for leading research on private entry in cruise terminal operations. He won the European Community Studies Association "Best European Study 1999" Competition. His books examine the European Port Policy (English, Japanese, & Greek), *the Common EU Maritime Transport Policy (*English & Greek), the Port Economy (in Greek), Maritime Transport: The Greek Paradigm (English), and Port Economics, Management & Policy (English & Greek).

He was a Fulbright Scholar (2008-11) at Columbia University, New York, US (Centre for Energy, Marine Transportation & Public Policy), Professor at the Department of Shipping, Trade and Transport, University of the Aegean & the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens in Greece, Adjunct Professor at the Centre for International Trade & Transportation, Dalhousie University, Halifax, Canada, and Visiting Professor at Universidad de Los Andes Colombia. Visiting professorships were held at Athens University of Economics, Greece; University of Antwerp, Belgium; University of Old Dominion, Virginia, US; University of Texas A&M, US; Parthenope University of Naples, Italy; and Hong Kong Polytechnic University.

Thanos is the immediate past President (2018-2022) and currently a Council member of the International Association of Maritime Economists (IAME). He received his BSc (Economics) from Athens University of Economics, Greece (1992), his MA (Economics of European Integration) from Exeter University, UK (1993), and a PhD from the School of Management, University of Bath, UK in 1998.

Professional Expertise

Thanos has worked in ports and maritime logistics on all continents. Currently a member of the International Association of Ports & Harbors (IAPH) Risk and Resilience Committee, he contributed to research in North America for Transport Canada (Port Performance Indicators and Benchmarks; Atlantic Gateway Research Initiative; Canadian Port governance reform; the Association of American Port Authorities (Port Customer Service Initiative); in South America (port development, Chile; port policy, Colombia); in Asia defining maritime strategies (Turkey; Bangladesh); in Africa on port privatization and concessions (UNCTAD); in Europe for OECD, and the European Commission. A regular advisor to national governments and European ports on port-related issues, he was UNCTAD's chief consultant on the implications of the COVID-19 pandemic for maritime supply chains.

His extensive work in cruise and tourist ports (marinas) and shipping includes five years as Secretary-General of MedCruise (2013-17), the association representing over 150 cruise ports in 20 countries in the Mediterranean, and extensive consultancy work for OECD, Cruise Europe, MedCruise, CLIA, the Greek Ministry of Tourism and several European ports. He is currently a member of the IAPH Cruise Committee.

In Greece, Thanos served as General Secretary for Ports & Port Policy at the Ministry of Development, Competitiveness, and Shipping of the Hellenic Republic and was a Member of the National Council for the Development of State Assets (2011-12). His responsibilities included representing Greece at the European Ports Policy decision-making and negotiating with the IMF/European Commission/ECB Troika on port policy reforms.

Contract research encompasses projects and consultancy studies examining the structures of the European port industry and other maritime topics. It has been financed, among others, by competition authorities in Europe and North America, port authorities, associations representing port and shipping interests, and several terminal operators, as well as shipping and maritime-related companies.
